Google Play TuneIn iTunes © 1996-2020 Copyright: MyjoyOnline.com New Crusade is a private investigative and political newspaper. The article gained popularity in the media player in part due to the popularity of its managing editor and editor-in-chief of the article. The newspaper's managing editor, Abdul Malik Queku Baako, is a well-known journalist. The newspaper's editor-in-chief, Anas Emeyyav Anas, is the house's name in investigative journalism. Geopoll, one of the world's largest mobile viewing platforms, is pegging the newspaper's audience share at 1.1% (January - March 2017), simply by placing a newspaper in the Top Ten. Its average readership based on this market report is 73,000. The New Crusading Guide covers a wide range of stories, but political news in the newspaper is dominant. Other issues covered in the newspaper include sports, arts and culture, regional and international news and environmental news. The new cross guide is published by Kweku Baako Media Limited, on which no public records can be found in the registrar's general department. Kweku Baako Media Limited - based on news reports - is owned by Abdul Malik and Kweka Baako Jnr. Kweku Baako Jnr. is an award-winning journalist, editor-in-chief of the New Cross Leadership and an active political commentator on several other media platforms. Queku Baaco-enr. is said to be a critic of the former Government of the Nation Democratic Congress (NDC) and describes Nana Akufo-Addo - the current president of the NPP - as a good friend. In 2016, he was voted the 45th most influential person in the country by the general public.
